

Hello!

My passion is to work with stakeholders and users to face their challenges, to discover their real problems, and to find the best solutions.

I think that designing is like going on a journey, like climbing a mountain. The goal is set, but the path isn't clear. We have a plan and we follow a route, but we need to check and decide at every step to get to the summit. Research requires the same attitude of planning, and executing, but also reviewing the direction, until we reach the goal.

In these slides I'm showing some of the research efforts I did in my career. I present the client's goals, the methodology we used and the deliverables we produced.

despegar.com. Evolution and Revolution

The leader of online travel in Latin America needed to improve its UX in order to take a qualitative step forward.

With my team we did an heuristic evaluation and user testing to detect to map out the pain points on the website.

Based on these results, we planned a two-phase redesign:

- 1. Evolution: fast redesign for evident issues on visuals and layout.
- 2. Revolution: brand new design system, innovative interactions and expeditive workflows .

My Challenges:

- Introduce UX practices in the design-development cycle.
- Plan and facilitate research techniques.
- Redesign a working website.

New design for hotel search results based on deep user research.

Improves readability and makes selection easier with faceted filtering, maps and photos.

Hospital Italiano. UX for Health.

A top hospital in Buenos Aires, Argentina, that develops its own software, needed to improve the usability of its electronic health record, as well as to train its personal on UX techniques.

I founded and led the UX team that renewed the EHR and designed new apps for doctors, nurses and admin. The quality and user-acceptance of these apps helped for the hospital's accreditation by Joint Commission International.

My Challenges:

- Create a UX culture on the Informatics Dept.
- Empathize with a broad range of user profiles: doctors, nurses, patients, and admins.
- Create apps for critical-mission tasks.

Hospital Italiano. Electronic Health Record redesign.

1. Contextual Interviews

Goals: Empathize with doctors, know their goals, and understand their needs and pains about the health record.

Methodology:

- 1. I made contextual interviews to 12 doctors in internal wards, ICU, ER, and ambulatory offices.
- 2. I asked participants how they were using the current EHR and what was causing difficulties to them.
- 3. The results were analyzed in a team workshop.

Hospital Italiano. Electronic Health Record redesign.

2. Wireframes and prototypes

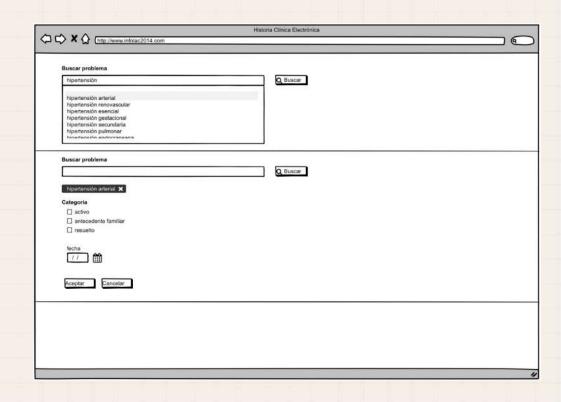

Using Balsamiq, I designed wireframes for new alternatives, based on the results of research. After getting feedback from stakeholders, I built an interactive prototype in Axure to test with users.

3. User testing

I tested in several rounds with 25 doctors in diverse contexts and from different specialties. The tests were done in a lab room, and doctor's offices. I used the think-out loud protocol.

4. Visual Design

Finally, a new Design System was created to enforce visibility and accessibility. Mockups were created taking into account the results of tests and applying the Design System.

Modere. More Efficient Salesforce.

Modere is multi-level marketing company that sells health-support, nutrition and cosmetic products.

The company contracted Globant to design a new website and mobile app. They knew the old ones were not very easy to use for their customers.

I planned a fast approach to detect the most evident and harmful usability issues. After that, I focused on designing more efficient workflows and easier to understand interactions.

My Challenges:

- Legacy inefficient workflows
- Marketing-oriented information architecture
- Company-centered product design practices

Goals:

Find most evident usability and accessibility issues.

Methodology:

- I compiled a set of good practices and user-centered design principles from Jakob Nielsen, Don Norman and IBM Design.
- 2. I created a proto-persona of a Modere's buyer and defined 3 tasks. A 3-level scale of severity was set.
- Two UX designers reviewed Modere's website and apps.
- 4. The designers discussed the findings and prepared a common list.

Reporting of issues.

Intuition and Learning

Help the user to learn how to use the product.

Consistency

If there are elements that look alike, users expect them to mean and behave the same. That is valid for everything, from everyday objects to apps, from buttons to business models. Consistency applies to colors, typography, shapes, links, icons, menus, words, behaviors, etc.

Signifier

The attribute of a widget that allows people to know how to use it, based on its visual clues.

Equivalent to the affordance for physical objects.

Constraints

The design concept of constraining refers to determining ways of restricting the kind of user interaction that can take place at a given moment. This is useful to decrease the number of possible actions to help to learn, reduce effort, and avoid errors.

Mapping

This refers to the relationship between controls and their effects on the app. An example of a good mapping between control and effect is the up and down arrows used to represent the up and down movement of the cursor, respectively, on a computer keyboard.

List of explained design principles.

Deliverable:

A presentation was delivered with screenshots showing usability and accessibility issues, color-coded according to their severity.

Modere. Categorization Review.

Goals:

Re-organize contents according to users' criteria.

Methodology:

- 1. I reviewed the complete list of products sold by Modere (~200), and took note of their attributes:

 - Current category
 - o Goal
 - Ingredients
 - o Flavors
 - Sizes

Modere. Interaction Design.

Goal:

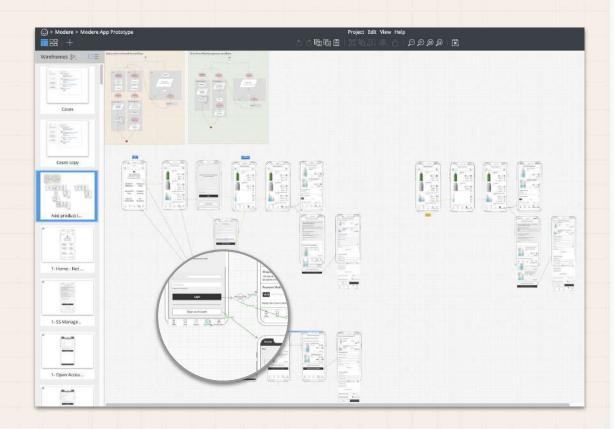

To create more efficient task flows and a usable interface.

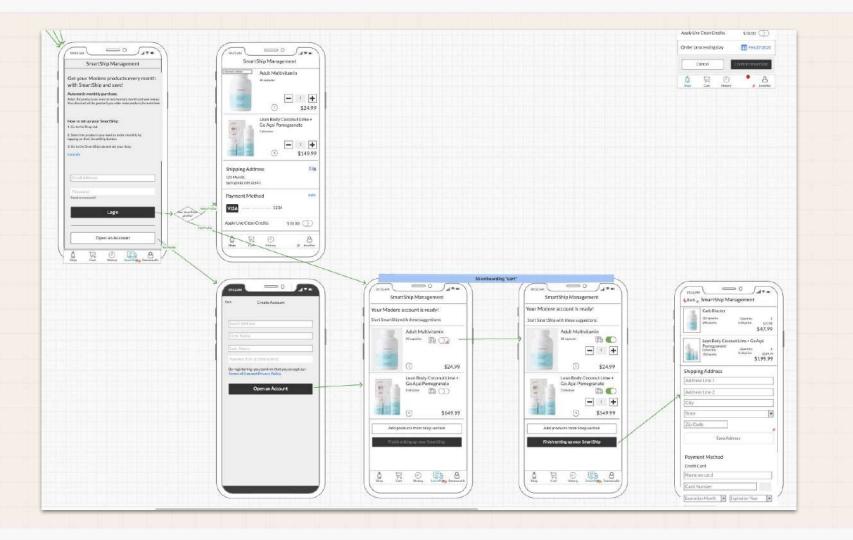

Methodology:

- 1. I used a rapid-prototyping tool to create workflows and wireframes (Balsamiq).
- 2. We discussed innovations with the product owner and the developers in participative and collaborative remote workshops.
- 3. This activity took 3 hours per week, in 2-weeks sprints.
- 4. I iterated the workflows and wireframes based on the workshops' conclusions.

Deliverables:

Workflows and working prototypes made with wireframes. Interaction specs.

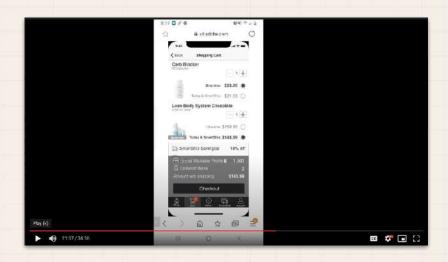

Modere. User Testing.

Goal:

Check the usability of prototypes and to get new insights from users.

Methodology:

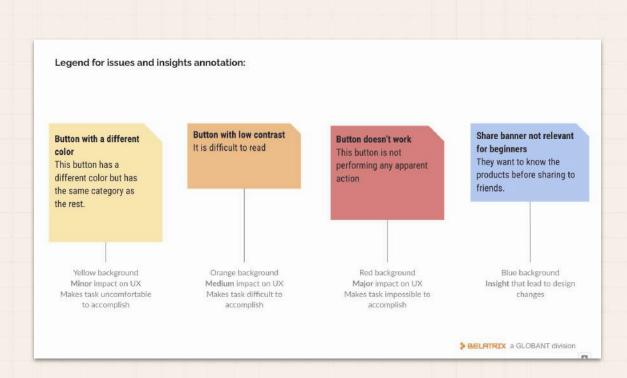

- 1. I made a list of the features to test and questions to answer with the test.
- 2. I designed the tasks according to that list.
- 3. I created a prototype to simulate the app's behavior for those tasks.
- 4. I invited participants from Modere's customers base.
- 5. The sessions were scheduled, run and recorded using UserTesting.com and Zoom
- 6. The think-aloud protocol was used for all the tests. I invited the product owner and developers to be observers.
- 7. I compiled the task resolution, user behavior and comments.
- 8. The test results were discussed in workshops with the product owner and developers, in order to take future design decisions.

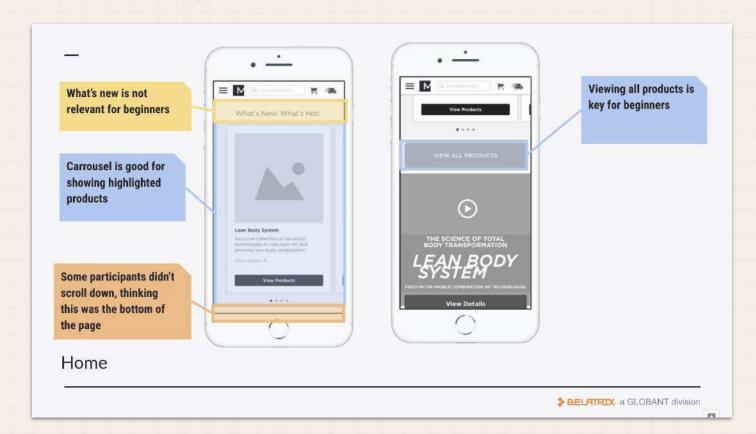

Modere. User Testing.

Deliverables:

- 1. Slides with screenshots and findings.
- 2. Video clips highlighting key issues.
